

Homocysteine/methionine cycle: Homocysteine (an amino acid) serves as an intermediary in the sulfur-amino acid metabolism and is responsible for linking the methionine (a protein-based amino acid) cycle to the folate cycle.