

Catecholaminergic: These systems are activated by secreting catecholamines, which are substances occurring naturally in the body that can act as neurotransmitters or hormones.