

Adrenal glands: Glands found at the top of the kidneys that produce, among other substances, the hormones responsible for managing stress, such as cortisol. They produce these hormones in response to the signals sent by the pituitary gland (via ACTH).