

N2 component: N2 is one of the event-related potentials (a test to measure cerebral activity) peaks commonly identified in research.