

Negative central (Nc) component: Frequency components are recorded from the central nervous system. Responses can be constant, and peaks are either positive or negative. A Negative central (Nc) component generally occurs when the infant is fully attentive or alerted by a new stimulus.