

RNA: RNA (or Ribonucleic Acid) is central to protein synthesis. It is a constituent of all living cells and many viruses. RNA is transcribed from DNA and consists of a long, usually single-stranded chain of alternating phosphate.