

Sympathetic nervous system: When this system activates, it prepares the body for physical and intellectual activity. When the body is facing major stress, this system initiates, for example, the fight/flight response.