

Working memory: Short-term memory (up to a few minutes) involving various consolidation strategies (e.g., repetition) for transferring information to the long-term memory.